Utah Ballet Summer Intensive

Guide to Salt Lake City

Food, Entertainment, Healthcare, Points of Interest, Navigation, Maps
WELCOME!

We are so pleased to have you dancing with us this summer! We love it here and hope that you will come to love it, too. Utah is a beautiful and unique place. This guide will help you become familiar with the city before you come, or when you first get here. We’ve listed some of our preferred restaurants, coffee shops, and things to do, but there are many other options out there besides what we have listed. Hopefully you will enjoy discovering them during your time here. We look forward to getting to know you!

If you have any questions while you are here, please contact our UBSI Director, Maggie Tesch at Maggie.Tesch@utah.edu

We hope you enjoy your time here in Salt Lake City. We are so excited to have you here with us!

About Salt Lake

Salt Lake lies in a mountain valley, with the Wasatch Mountains to the east and north and the Oquirrh (pronounced "oaker") Mountains to the west. Once you become accustomed to which are which, it is very helpful in maintaining your sense of direction. The city is situated on land once covered by the prehistoric Lake Bonneville. This ancient lake existed within portions of Utah, Nevada, and Idaho, with an elevation rising from 4,200 feet to 5,200 feet (1,280 meters to 1,585 meters) at some points. The eastern and northern portions of the city are located on a series of terraces, or former beaches, which are known locally as "the benches." Salt Lake City has a local population of 186,440.

Weather and Elevation

Summers are hot, frequently reaching above 100°F (38°C), while winters are cold and snowy. However, winters are warmer than one would expect at this elevation and latitude, due to the Rocky Mountains to the east and north that usually block powerful polar highs from affecting the state during the winter. Temperatures rarely fall below 0°F (-18 °C), but frequently stay below freezing. Temperature inversions during winter can lead to thick overnight fog and daytime haze in the valley as cool air, moisture, and pollutants are trapped in the valley by surrounding mountains. Salt Lake's official elevation is 4,330 feet/1,320 meters above sea level. It is very dry and at a higher altitude than many people are used to. If you are coming from a lower elevation, you may notice a difference the first few weeks of dancing. Make sure you drink plenty of water, and even more during class and rehearsals.

Understanding Salt Lake City's Grid System

Utah's street naming and numbering system is based on a grid system with the Salt Lake Temple as the center of town. This system makes for some unique addresses. Although this can be very confusing and frustrating to someone who is unfamiliar with this system, it is actually a very efficient way of doing things. Here is an explanation of our roads so you may better find your way:

Temple Square is the "center" of town, and is bordered by North Temple to the North, South Temple to the South, West Temple to the west, and Main Street to the East. The intersection of South Temple and Main is considered grid point (0,0).

From the center (grid point (0,0)), the streets are incremented by 100, and are named by the position relative to the center. The names of streets running North/South and positioned to the east of Main Street are named 200 East, 300 East, and so on. The same logic applies to the streets on the other 3 sides.

So, if you are looking for 300 South and 500 East, you know that the location will be 3 blocks south and 5 blocks east of the center of town.

Confusion comes in to play because the streets that run North/South are called either an "East" street or a "West" street. Remember, they are named after the positions relative to the center, and not the direction they run.

Also, residents tend to say "1st South" when they are referring to "100 South" and "5th East" when they are referring to "500 East". This gets interesting as you go "way south" and you need to refer to 100th South (Do you mean 100 South or 10000 South??) The way to tell here is the inclusion (or elimination) of the "th". 100th South is 10000 South. 100 South (note no "th") is 100 South or 1st South.
A few streets have names, notably Broadway, which would otherwise be 300 S, and State St, which would be 100 E. Another exception is in the Avenue’s Neighborhood, where north-south streets are given letters of the alphabet, and east-west streets are numbered.

Salt Lake City Neighborhoods

Public Transportation

Utah Transit Authority (UTA) provides over 100 bus routes throughout a 1,800 square-mile area. UTA also provides light-rail service called TRAX and airport transportation. A free fare zone is available downtown. For more information on public transportation, visit www.rideutah.com.

Car Sharing Programs

Enterprise Rent-A-Car offers a car sharing program in your community that allows you to reserve a car by the hour under one all-inclusive price. This price includes fuel and damage/liability protection. Unlike a traditional rental, you only have to be 21 years old. Rates change depending on the time and day. Hourly rates start at $4.75 and daily rates at $75. This company is the most prevalent downtown. For more information, visit www.enterprisecarshare.com.
U-Haul provides you a car for hourly or daily rates as well, and you only pay for what you use. Rates are as low as $4.95/hour plus mileage or $62/day. All you need is a valid driver’s license. For more information, visit www.uhaulcarshare.com.

Park City

Located approximately 40 minutes east of Salt Lake, Park City is a scenic mountain community with three world-class resorts and a town filled with activities. Besides miles of hiking and biking trails, there is an Alpine Coaster at Park City Resort, and the Utah Olympic Park has a summer bobsled ride which is over 3,000 feet and one of the longest in the world. Historic Main Street is full of art galleries, shopping and restaurants. Tanger Outlet Mall is located just outside of downtown. During the summer there are live outdoor concerts, live theatre, independent film screenings, and gallery tours. The Park Silly Sunday Market features local and regional arts and crafts, live music, gourmet foods and farmer’s market fruits and vegetables. Park City is also host to the Kimball Arts Festival, which is one of the top art festivals in the country. 200 Artists are selected to participate in this annual juried show featuring work in 12 categories. The three day festival August 1-3, also offers live music and art focused film screenings. For more information about Park City, please visit www.visitparkcity.com.

National Parks

Although most of your time will be spent in Salt Lake City dancing, if you ever get a chance Utah is home to five National Parks! These include Zion, Bryce, Canyonlands, Capitol Reef, and Arches. These are all a 4-8 hour drive from Salt Lake. People fly from all over the world to see Utah’s deep canyons, sandstone arches, towering monoliths and red hoodoos. Take advantage of it while you are here! Utah also has 43 State Parks, including Antelope Island, Bear Lake, Goblin Valley and more. If you enjoy hiking or mountain biking there is plenty of that right in our own backyard, City Creek has many trails within walking distance of downtown. Millcreek Canyon, Ferguson Canyon, and Big and Little Cottonwood have an endless amount of trails to explore and cliffs to climb in the summer. In the winter they are great for cross country skiing and snowshoeing. The Uinta Mountains, which are located in Northeastern Utah, are stunning and have many trails for hiking, fishing and backpacking. Salt Lake City is also within driving distance of the Grand Tetons, Yellowstone National Park, and the Bonneville Salt Flats.
